COURSE INFORMATION

Course Description

This course is intended to provide an extensive update of current surgical approaches to the wide spectrum of disease processes encountered by the general surgeon. Course content will include state-of-the-art lectures, panel discussions, and instructive video presentations. This program will be an important supplement to the Maintenance of Certification process in General Surgery, and should help prepare the participant for successful completion of the General Surgery Re-Certification examination.

Educational Objectives

Upon completion of this course, participants will be able to:

1. Outline the care of patients with gastrointestinal tumors
2. Effectively diagnose and care for patients with breast and endocrine disease
3. Approach to critically ill patients with current therapies
4. Discuss the future application of NOTES and Single Access Surgery

Continuing Education

The Case Western Reserve University School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The Case Western Reserve University School of Medicine designates this education activity for a maximum of 14 AMA PRA Category 1 creditsTM. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.
