Policy on Disclosure The policy of the Case School of Medicine CME Program (Case) requires that the Activity Director, planning committee members and all activity faculty (that is, anyone in a position to control the content of the education activity) disclose to the activity participants all relevant financial relationships with commercial interests. Disclosure will be made to activity participants prior to the commencement of the activity. Case also requires that faculty make clinical recommendations based on the best available scientific evidence and that faculty identify any discussion of “off-label” or investigational use of pharmaceutical products or medical devices.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Learning Objectives

After attending this program participants will be able to:

- Outline the care of patients with gastrointestinal tumors
- Effectively diagnose and care for patients with breast and endocrine disease
- Approach trauma and critically ill patients with current therapies

Educational Design and Methodology/ Who Should Attend

This course is intended to provide an extensive update of current surgical approaches to the wide spectrum of disease processes encountered by the general surgeon. Course content will include state-of-the-art lectures, panel discussions and instructive video presentations. This program will be an important supplement to the Maintenance of Certification process in General Surgery, and should help prepare the participant for successful completion of the General Surgery Re-certification examination.

Continuing Education

The Case Western Reserve University School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The Case Western Reserve University School of Medicine designates this educational activity for a maximum of 14.5 AMA PRA Category 1 credits™ toward the AMA Physician's Recognition Award. Each physician should claim only those credits that he/she actually spent in the educational activity.

Acknowledgments

Educational grants from corporate sponsors in support of this program are gratefully acknowledged. Acceptance of funding in support of this program does not constitute endorsement of any product or manufacturer.

Meeting Location

Wolstein Research Building
 Case Western Reserve University
